CORPORATE RECORD - RECORD 002

Helioscope Robotics, Inc. - diligence file reference LEGAL_HISTORY-002

1. Designation Provisions in Detail

The subject of this file is the Seed Preferred designation filed in November 2019 and the consent that adopted it, including the requisite calculation for a vote taken by the Common and Seed holders together and the eleven counterparts the corporation obtained for it. Seed Preferred Designation File and Supporting Approvals. Counsel prepared the present record at the request of the diligence team, and it addresses the Seed Preferred designation and the consents that adopted it. Nothing in these pages speaks to the current round, and every amount belongs to the instrument that carried it rather than to any later transaction.

Redemption is available only at holder election after a stated date, and the designation conditions any redemption on funds legally available under the law of Delaware. One subsection reserves to the board the power to fix the terms of any further series, subject to the protective provisions then in force. Seniority is expressed by series and, within one series, by tranche, and the designation avoids describing rank through any summary capitalization exhibit.

Conversion is stated as an optional right at holder election plus an automatic conversion on stated events, and each trigger is defined in its own lettered clause. Redemption is available only at holder election after a stated date, and the designation conditions any redemption on funds legally available under the law of Delaware. The designation states that a class approval given in advance of an action remains effective only if the action occurs within a stated window.

2. Sequence of Filed Instruments

Beside each instrument the file cross-references the board minute that authorized its submission, which lets authority be tested without leaving the charter binder. Every designation in the chain rests on the blank-check authority the charter reserves to the board, and the enabling article is named for each one. Where a restatement consolidated earlier amendments, the superseded instruments stay in the file, because an abandoned proposal and an operative provision look alike once the numbering changes.

Two restatements were adopted in the same week as a new series designation, and they remain separate instruments here because the state accepted them as separate filings. Beside each instrument the file cross-references the board minute that authorized its submission, which lets authority be tested without leaving the charter binder. A reader working backwards from the current authorized totals reaches one step that will not reconcile until the correction instrument is read together with the amendment it repairs.

Continuing the 2. Sequence of Filed Instruments, the rows below follow directly on from part 3 minus one, with no gap in the reference sequence. Nothing is restated from the earlier part.

Whatever caveat the 2. Sequence of Filed Instruments carried at its head travels with these rows, and no additional caveat attaches to this part. The parts are to be read together.

Nothing in this part varies how the 2. Sequence of Filed Instruments was compiled, and the headings given at the start remain the operative ones. The sequence is unbroken either side of it.

3. Approvals and Requisite Calculations

Where a consent was returned after the stated effective date, the register marks it late and the analysis states whether the requisite was met without it. Counsel reviewed whether any consent required a notice to non-consenting holders after the fact, and identified the notices sent and the one that was not. Two directors recused themselves from the item in which they held an interest, and the minute records the recusal before the vote rather than as a later annotation.

An abstention was treated as neither a consent nor an objection, and the numerator excludes it while the denominator continues to count the abstaining holder's shares. Where a consent was returned after the stated effective date, the register marks it late and the analysis states whether the requisite was met without it. The interested-party analysis was performed on the transaction as a whole and again on each item within it, because a director interested in one item was disinterested in the others.

4. Interpretation and Definitions

The definition of an affiliate governs the permitted assignment provisions, and it is drafted more narrowly than the definition used in the commercial agreements. The term for a permitted transferee appears in both the charter and the transfer agreements, and the two definitions were conformed in one of the restatements. A deemed liquidation event is defined by enumerating transaction forms rather than by a general description, which narrows the clause deliberately.

The original issue price of each series is fixed as a defined term in the designation, and no later instrument adjusts it except by express amendment. The definition of an affiliate governs the permitted assignment provisions, and it is drafted more narrowly than the definition used in the commercial agreements. A defined term for the plan reserve links the charter's authorized totals to the equity plan documents without repeating any figure.

5. What Acceptance by the State Does Not Establish

Where a defect was purely clerical, a correction instrument was used (8 Del. C. § 103), and counsel confirmed that no new approval was needed for a correction of that kind. Effectiveness of the forum amendment was never in doubt, but its enforceability against a particular claim is a separate matter this file does not address. Counsel distinguished a curable procedural gap from a substantive failure of authority, since the remedies available differ sharply between them.

One instrument became effective before the class vote it required was complete, and the corporation later addressed that gap through a ratification rather than a refiling. Where a defect was purely clerical, a correction instrument was used (8 Del. C. § 103), and counsel confirmed that no new approval was needed for a correction of that kind. The validation certificate identifies the defective act, the date of the act, the nature of the defect, and the date the ratification was approved, in that order.

6. Ledger and Transfer-Agent Records

One certificate was issued to a grantor trust on an estate-planning transfer, and the register notes that the transfer was permitted without a right of first refusal process. No certificate in the register is recorded as lost, so the file contains no affidavit of loss or indemnity bond. Two certificates were cancelled and reissued in part, and the register shows both the cancelled amount and the reissued amount rather than only the net position.

Restricted shares carry a legend, and the register distinguishes a legend that remains from one removed on a stated date with a stated certification behind it. One certificate was issued to a grantor trust on an estate-planning transfer, and the register notes that the transfer was permitted without a right of first refusal process. Uncertificated shares appear in the ledger without a stub, and the register cross-references the board resolution that permitted uncertificated issuance.

7. Transfer Records and Refusal Rights

A pledge to a lender was released before the underlying shares moved, and the release is filed with the transfer record rather than in a separate finance folder. Notices were sent to the addresses of record, and two of those addresses were later found to be stale, which is recorded with the transfer rather than only in the notice log. One negotiated secondary sale to an outside fund proceeded on a written waiver, and the waiver names the specific transfer it permits rather than granting a general dispensation.

A permitted family transfer required no refusal process at all, and the file states the clause of the agreement that made it permitted. A pledge to a lender was released before the underlying shares moved, and the release is filed with the transfer record rather than in a separate finance folder. The estate-planning transfer moved shares between two trusts with the same beneficiaries, and the file holds the trust certificates that establish the relationship.

8. Waiver Register and Notice Practice

Where a waiver was partial, the register describes what remained in force rather than recording the provision as waived in full. Because several waivers share a stated term of thirty days, the register computes each lapse date separately from its own grant date. Two waivers lapsed without the notice the underlying agreement contemplates, and the register marks the notice column rather than presenting the lapse as clean.

One waiver was granted for a single transaction and expressly did not extend to any other transfer, which the register reproduces in the effect column. Where a waiver was partial, the register describes what remained in force rather than recording the provision as waived in full. The register records whether a lapse was noticed, partially noticed, or not noticed, and it does not treat an unnoticed lapse as a failure of the lapse itself.

9. Plan Records and Evergreen Mechanics

The history distinguishes shares added to a reserve from shares returned to a reserve on forfeiture, since only the first requires an approval. The administrator's records identify the fair market value determination relied on for each grant date, and those determinations sit outside this file. A later plan introduced an evergreen provision, and the history records each year the evergreen tranche was certified by the board.

The evergreen was suspended for one year, and the suspension was approved by the same consent that carried a charter amendment. The history distinguishes shares added to a reserve from shares returned to a reserve on forfeiture, since only the first requires an approval. The history records the plan under which each grant was made, which matters because two plans were live in the same calendar year.

10. Records Held and Where They Sit

The bylaws as most recently amended are held with the charter instruments, and the index notes which bylaw amendments were board-adopted rather than stockholder-approved. The corporation's records retention practice keeps charter and stockholder materials indefinitely, which the index states on its face. One tab has a gap covering a single year of registered agent correspondence, which the index records rather than leaving the reader to discover it.

The registered agent has changed once, and the acceptance of the incoming agent is filed with the instrument that recorded the change. The bylaws as most recently amended are held with the charter instruments, and the index notes which bylaw amendments were board-adopted rather than stockholder-approved. Where a document exists in both a signed and an unsigned form, the index names the signed version as the record copy.

11. Filing Administration

The log distinguishes an instrument lodged by counsel at the counter from one uploaded through the state portal, because the evidence of lodgement differs. A single batch contained a restatement and a designation, and the log shows the two instruments with distinct effective times inside the same lodgement. The first rejection turned on a signature block that did not state the signing officer's capacity, a defect corrected within a day.

The second rejection concerned a restated form lodged without the officer certification the state requires with a restatement of that kind. The log distinguishes an instrument lodged by counsel at the counter from one uploaded through the state portal, because the evidence of lodgement differs. No filing in the log was withdrawn after lodgement, so the file contains no withdrawal instrument.

12. Matters Left Outstanding

Counsel has not been asked to opine on any of the open items, and nothing in this file should be read as an opinion on them. The list does not include items arising from the current financing, which are tracked separately by the transaction team. One restricted stock election receipt is missing from the file, and the grantee has been asked to produce the mailing evidence.

Two notice addresses are stale, and until they are corrected any notice sent under the agreements to those parties is of doubtful effect. Counsel has not been asked to opine on any of the open items, and nothing in this file should be read as an opinion on them. An item was reopened after it had been closed, because the document produced turned out to be a superseded copy.
