CORPORATE RECORD - RECORD 003

Helioscope Robotics, Inc. - diligence file reference LEGAL_HISTORY-003

1. Rights Attaching to the Designated Series

This file concerns the Series A-1 Preferred designation filed in April 2021, the two-thirds Seed class vote that authorized it, and the two counterparts of the related authorized-share consent that were never returned by their holders. Series A-1 Designation File and the Late Class Vote. The materials gathered under this cover concern the Series A-1 designation, its class vote, and the counterparts obtained after filing. It is a historical record: figures stated here are those of the instruments described, and no conclusion is drawn about the financing now in progress.

Anti-destruction language addresses what a holder receives on a recapitalization, and it is drafted independently of the deemed liquidation clause. Redemption is available only at holder election after a stated date, and the designation conditions any redemption on funds legally available under the law of Delaware. The antidilution clause distinguishes a structural adjustment for splits and combinations from a price-based adjustment, and it places them in different subsections for that reason.

Voting is measured on an as-converted basis for general matters, while the protective provisions are voted by class, and the designation keeps the two mechanics apart. Redemption is available only at holder election after a stated date, and the designation conditions any redemption on funds legally available under the law of Delaware. The series terms bind successors and permitted assigns, and the designation makes an assignment of rights ineffective until the assignee has joined the relevant agreement.

2. Instrument Chronology

This file separates an amendment that raised an authorized total from a designation that allocated part of that total to a new series, because the two demand different approvals. Beside each instrument the file cross-references the board minute that authorized its submission, which lets authority be tested without leaving the charter binder. Chronology is stated by effective time rather than by execution date: two instruments lodged on one afternoon took effect minutes apart, and that order governs the share reconciliation.

A short amendment touching only the forum article sits between two restatements, and it is easy to overlook precisely because it altered no economic term. Beside each instrument the file cross-references the board minute that authorized its submission, which lets authority be tested without leaving the charter binder. Where an instrument bears an effective time later than the hour of filing, the delay was requested in the cover letter and that request sits in the batch materials.

2. Instrument Chronology - part 4 of 4

For length, the 2. Instrument Chronology is presented in 4 parts; this is the next of them, and the rows continue the same sequence. No row is omitted at the join.

Definitions given once for the 2. Instrument Chronology are relied on again rather than restated, the compilation basis being identical. Pagination alone determines where it falls.

3. Consent Record and Thresholds

Where the same consent approved both a charter amendment and a plan reserve increase, the file separates the two approvals so a defect in one does not travel to the other. Where a consent was returned after the stated effective date, the register marks it late and the analysis states whether the requisite was met without it. Because written consents were solicited in counterparts, the register tracks how many counterparts were received against how many were sought for each matter.

One matter was approved by a threshold expressed as two thirds of a series, and counsel confirmed that the shares counted were held of record rather than beneficially. Where a consent was returned after the stated effective date, the register marks it late and the analysis states whether the requisite was met without it. A trustee signature was accepted only after the trust certificate had been produced, and the register notes the date the certificate arrived.

4. How the Instruments Define Their Terms

The definitions subsection states that the singular includes the plural, which resolves a reading question in the protective provisions. The definition of an affiliate governs the permitted assignment provisions, and it is drafted more narrowly than the definition used in the commercial agreements. Capital stock, preferred stock, and each series are separate defined terms, and the charter avoids using the general term where a series is meant.

Where a definition was relocated during a restatement, the conformance schedule records the move so an old cross-reference can be followed. The definition of an affiliate governs the permitted assignment provisions, and it is drafted more narrowly than the definition used in the commercial agreements. Where a term is used only once, the charter defines it inline rather than in the definitions subsection, and the conformance review lists those instances.

5. Defects, Corrections, and Ratification

Because the defect concerned a class vote rather than board authority, the ratification was approved by the class whose vote had been missing. Where a defect was purely clerical, a correction instrument was used (8 Del. C. § 103), and counsel confirmed that no new approval was needed for a correction of that kind. The ratification path was chosen because the underlying action had been relied upon for years, and unwinding it would have unsettled records that third parties had accepted.

Ratification of a defective corporate act is a procedure the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware (8 Del. C. § 204) contemplates, and the corporation followed the notice and filing steps that procedure entails. Where a defect was purely clerical, a correction instrument was used (8 Del. C. § 103), and counsel confirmed that no new approval was needed for a correction of that kind. A refiling was considered and rejected, since refiling would have created a second instrument with a later effective time and disturbed the reconciliation of authorized totals.

6. Certificate and Ledger Records

The cancellation entries were tested against the ledger movements to confirm that no cancelled certificate remained counted as outstanding. One certificate was issued to a grantor trust on an estate-planning transfer, and the register notes that the transfer was permitted without a right of first refusal process. The transfer agent holds the ledger of record, and instruction letters from the corporation are indexed against the entries they produced.

Where a holder returned a certificate for re-registration in the name of a nominee, the register names both the former holder and the nominee. One certificate was issued to a grantor trust on an estate-planning transfer, and the register notes that the transfer was permitted without a right of first refusal process. One reissued certificate bears a legend that its predecessor did not, because the holder's circumstances changed between the two issuances.

7. Secondary Transfers and Their Process

None of the transfers in the file triggered a drag-along right, and the record states the threshold that would have been required. A pledge to a lender was released before the underlying shares moved, and the release is filed with the transfer record rather than in a separate finance folder. Where a right of first refusal lapsed by non-exercise, the file holds the notice that started the period and the calendar showing when it ended.

The transfer records identify the purchaser in each secondary sale, and no transfer in the file was made to a person who had not joined the relevant agreements. A pledge to a lender was released before the underlying shares moved, and the release is filed with the transfer record rather than in a separate finance folder. One transfer record notes that the purchaser asked for and did not receive an information-rights joinder, so its rights are limited to those the agreements give any holder.

8. Dated Waivers and What Followed Them

One waiver deferred a recalculation that would otherwise have been required, and the deferral was tied to the completion of the ratification then in progress. Where a waiver was partial, the register describes what remained in force rather than recording the provision as waived in full. The register distinguishes a waiver granted by the corporation from one granted by holders, since the two require different authority.

A waiver of an information-rights deadline had the practical effect of deferring three quarterly deliveries, and the register says which deliveries were affected. Where a waiver was partial, the register describes what remained in force rather than recording the provision as waived in full. The effect column states what the waiver actually enabled, not merely which clause it addressed, so a reader can see the transaction behind it.

9. History of the Equity Plans

No plan amendment in the history reduced a reserve, so the authorized-share reconciliation moves in one direction only on the plan lines. The history distinguishes shares added to a reserve from shares returned to a reserve on forfeiture, since only the first requires an approval. Each reserve increase after the first preferred designation required a class approval, and the history names the class that gave it.

Two restatements changed no reserve amount, and the history shows a zero delta for them rather than omitting them. The history distinguishes shares added to a reserve from shares returned to a reserve on forfeiture, since only the first requires an approval. A quarterly certification of the reserve balance was waived once and delivered on the lapse date, which the history cross-references to the waiver register.

10. Corporate Records and Custody

The index was tested by pulling ten items at random and confirming each was where the index said it would be. The bylaws as most recently amended are held with the charter instruments, and the index notes which bylaw amendments were board-adopted rather than stockholder-approved. The registered office address is a matter of public record, and the file holds the state-stamped instrument that established the current address.

Opinion letters delivered at each financing are retained with their qualifications, and the index does not summarize those qualifications away. The bylaws as most recently amended are held with the charter instruments, and the index notes which bylaw amendments were board-adopted rather than stockholder-approved. The secretary's certificate delivered for this process certifies the minute book as complete subject to the exceptions the index lists.

11. Submission Batches and State Responses

The log records page counts per document, which is how the state assessed part of the fee for the longer restatements. The log distinguishes an instrument lodged by counsel at the counter from one uploaded through the state portal, because the evidence of lodgement differs. A third submission was accepted with a clerk annotation, which the log preserves because the annotation affects how the stamped copy reads.

Fees paid are recorded per batch rather than per document, since the state assesses several instruments lodged together as one transaction. The log distinguishes an instrument lodged by counsel at the counter from one uploaded through the state portal, because the evidence of lodgement differs. One document was lodged by facsimile with the original following by courier, a practice the log notes has not been used since.

12. Unresolved Points on the Record

Two items depend on a third party returning a signature, and the corporation cannot close them unilaterally. Counsel has not been asked to opine on any of the open items, and nothing in this file should be read as an opinion on them. A lapse notice for one waiver was never circulated to a holder who was entitled to receive it, and the holder's later acknowledgement does not cure the omission on the record.

The standstill question raised in the most recent secondary inquiry remains open, and no waiver has yet been granted or refused. Counsel has not been asked to opine on any of the open items, and nothing in this file should be read as an opinion on them. The file distinguishes an open item from a qualification, since a qualification limits a statement while an open item describes work remaining.

The corporation has formed one subsidiary in the period, and the formation was permitted by a waiver of the protective provision that would otherwise have required a class approval. No director has resigned mid-term in the period, so no vacancy has had to be filled under the vacancy mechanics the charter provides.

No dividend has been declared on any class since incorporation, so no accrual or preference question has arisen in practice. The corporation has issued warrants on two occasions, and the shares reserved against them appear in the authorized-share reconciliation rather than in the plan reserves.
