CORPORATE RECORD - RECORD 008

Helioscope Robotics, Inc. - diligence file reference LEGAL_HISTORY-008

1. Certificate and Ledger Records

The certificate register is the subject of this file: every stub issued since incorporation, the cancellations and reissues that followed, and the chain from the two founder certificates through the repurchases, partial cancellations, and nominee re-registrations recorded since. Certificate Register - Issuances, Cancellations, and Reissues. Counsel prepared the present record at the request of the diligence team, and it addresses the stock certificate register and the cancellation and reissue chain. Nothing in these pages speaks to the current round, and every amount belongs to the instrument that carried it rather than to any later transaction.

Two certificates were cancelled and reissued in part, and the register shows both the cancelled amount and the reissued amount rather than only the net position. A stock power accompanies each transfer of a certificated share, and the register records whether the power was medallion-guaranteed or accepted on other evidence. The cancellation entries were tested against the ledger movements to confirm that no cancelled certificate remained counted as outstanding.

One reissued certificate bears a legend that its predecessor did not, because the holder's circumstances changed between the two issuances. Restricted shares carry a legend, and the register distinguishes a legend that remains from one removed on a stated date with a stated certification behind it. A stock power accompanies each transfer of a certificated share, and the register records whether the power was medallion-guaranteed or accepted on other evidence.

2. Secondary Transfers and Their Process

One negotiated secondary sale to an outside fund proceeded on a written waiver, and the waiver names the specific transfer it permits rather than granting a general dispensation. Transfer instructions to the agent were issued only after counsel confirmed that the process conditions had been met for the transfer concerned. None of the transfers in the file triggered a drag-along right, and the record states the threshold that would have been required.

One transfer record notes that the purchaser asked for and did not receive an information-rights joinder, so its rights are limited to those the agreements give any holder. A permitted family transfer required no refusal process at all, and the file states the clause of the agreement that made it permitted. Transfer instructions to the agent were issued only after counsel confirmed that the process conditions had been met for the transfer concerned.

2. Secondary Transfers and Their Process - part 4 of 4

For length, the 2. Secondary Transfers and Their Process is presented in 4 parts; this is the next of them, and the rows continue the same sequence. The parts are to be read together.

Readers should carry the 2. Secondary Transfers and Their Process's stated conventions across the break, since this part adds no definition of its own. Pagination alone determines where it falls.

3. Who Approved What, and on What Basis

Two directors recused themselves from the item in which they held an interest, and the minute records the recusal before the vote rather than as a later annotation. An officer's certificate accompanies each consent set and identifies the holders of record whose shares were counted, cross-referenced to the ledger as it then stood. Where the same consent approved both a charter amendment and a plan reserve increase, the file separates the two approvals so a defect in one does not travel to the other.

A trustee signature was accepted only after the trust certificate had been produced, and the register notes the date the certificate arrived. An abstention was treated as neither a consent nor an objection, and the numerator excludes it while the denominator continues to count the abstaining holder's shares. An officer's certificate accompanies each consent set and identifies the holders of record whose shares were counted, cross-referenced to the ledger as it then stood.

4. Records Held and Where They Sit

One tab has a gap covering a single year of registered agent correspondence, which the index records rather than leaving the reader to discover it. The index identifies which materials exist only in electronic form, since the corporation did not print portal exports in the early years. The index was tested by pulling ten items at random and confirming each was where the index said it would be.

The secretary's certificate delivered for this process certifies the minute book as complete subject to the exceptions the index lists. The registered agent has changed once, and the acceptance of the incoming agent is filed with the instrument that recorded the change. The index identifies which materials exist only in electronic form, since the corporation did not print portal exports in the early years.

4. Records Held and Where They Sit - part 2 of 4

Below, the 4. Records Held and Where They Sit continues; nothing separates this part from the last except the page on which it happens to fall. The sequence is unbroken either side of it.

Scope, cut-off and units for the 4. Records Held and Where They Sit were fixed at its first part and are not repeated, being unaltered. The break is editorial.

4. Records Held and Where They Sit - part 3 of 4

Rows of the 4. Records Held and Where They Sit resume here, numbered on from the part immediately preceding, so a reference cited once resolves in only one place. Nothing is restated from the earlier part.

Treat the conventions declared for the 4. Records Held and Where They Sit as governing here too; this part introduces none of its own. Pagination alone determines where it falls.

5. Defined Terms and Construction

A deemed liquidation event is defined by enumerating transaction forms rather than by a general description, which narrows the clause deliberately. The interpretation clause states that headings do not affect construction, which matters here because the article headings changed between restatements. The definitions subsection states that the singular includes the plural, which resolves a reading question in the protective provisions.

Where a term is used only once, the charter defines it inline rather than in the definitions subsection, and the conformance review lists those instances. The original issue price of each series is fixed as a defined term in the designation, and no later instrument adjusts it except by express amendment. The interpretation clause states that headings do not affect construction, which matters here because the article headings changed between restatements.

6. Plan Adoption and Reserve Approvals

A later plan introduced an evergreen provision, and the history records each year the evergreen tranche was certified by the board. The plan documents were conformed to the charter after the board size changed, and the restatement that did so altered no economic term. No plan amendment in the history reduced a reserve, so the authorized-share reconciliation moves in one direction only on the plan lines.

A quarterly certification of the reserve balance was waived once and delivered on the lapse date, which the history cross-references to the waiver register. The evergreen was suspended for one year, and the suspension was approved by the same consent that carried a charter amendment. The plan documents were conformed to the charter after the board size changed, and the restatement that did so altered no economic term.

7. Dated Waivers and What Followed Them

Two waivers lapsed without the notice the underlying agreement contemplates, and the register marks the notice column rather than presenting the lapse as clean. One lapse notice went to a superseded address, and the holder acknowledged the lapse informally some weeks later, which is recorded as an open item. One waiver deferred a recalculation that would otherwise have been required, and the deferral was tied to the completion of the ratification then in progress.

The effect column states what the waiver actually enabled, not merely which clause it addressed, so a reader can see the transaction behind it. One waiver was granted for a single transaction and expressly did not extend to any other transfer, which the register reproduces in the effect column. One lapse notice went to a superseded address, and the holder acknowledged the lapse informally some weeks later, which is recorded as an open item.

8. Joinder Records and Notice Maintenance

Where a party succeeded to another holder's position, the register identifies the predecessor and states whether the predecessor's joinder was superseded or remains on foot. The signature pages are held in a single counterpart set for each agreement, and the register cross-references the page number within that set. The register was reconciled against the stock ledger so that no holder of record is missing from the parties to the voting agreement.

One entity changed its legal name after joining, and the register carries the former and current names against a single entry. Two notice addresses on the register are stale, and mail to one of them has been returned, which is recorded as an open administrative item. The signature pages are held in a single counterpart set for each agreement, and the register cross-references the page number within that set.

9. Effectiveness Against Substantive Compliance

Counsel distinguished a curable procedural gap from a substantive failure of authority, since the remedies available differ sharply between them. An unsigned counterpart does not make an instrument ineffective if the requisite was met without it, but the file preserves the gap rather than presenting the set as complete. Because the defect concerned a class vote rather than board authority, the ratification was approved by the class whose vote had been missing.

A refiling was considered and rejected, since refiling would have created a second instrument with a later effective time and disturbed the reconciliation of authorized totals. One instrument became effective before the class vote it required was complete, and the corporation later addressed that gap through a ratification rather than a refiling. An unsigned counterpart does not make an instrument ineffective if the requisite was met without it, but the file preserves the gap rather than presenting the set as complete.

10. Charter Lineage and Sequence

Where a restatement consolidated earlier amendments, the superseded instruments stay in the file, because an abandoned proposal and an operative provision look alike once the numbering changes. Each restated charter carries its own internal article numbering, so any cross-reference drafted against an earlier scheme must be read through the conformance schedule. This file separates an amendment that raised an authorized total from a designation that allocated part of that total to a new series, because the two demand different approvals.

Where an instrument bears an effective time later than the hour of filing, the delay was requested in the cover letter and that request sits in the batch materials. Two restatements were adopted in the same week as a new series designation, and they remain separate instruments here because the state accepted them as separate filings. Each restated charter carries its own internal article numbering, so any cross-reference drafted against an earlier scheme must be read through the conformance schedule.

11. Lodgement Record, Rejections, and Refilings

The first rejection turned on a signature block that did not state the signing officer's capacity, a defect corrected within a day. Where a filing carried a requested delayed effective time, the cover letter making that request is retained in the batch materials. The log records page counts per document, which is how the state assessed part of the fee for the longer restatements.

One document was lodged by facsimile with the original following by courier, a practice the log notes has not been used since. The second rejection concerned a restated form lodged without the officer certification the state requires with a restatement of that kind. Where a filing carried a requested delayed effective time, the cover letter making that request is retained in the batch materials.

12. Items Carried Forward

One restricted stock election receipt is missing from the file, and the grantee has been asked to produce the mailing evidence. One item is described as immaterial on the record, and the basis for that description is given rather than asserted. Two items depend on a third party returning a signature, and the corporation cannot close them unilaterally.

The file distinguishes an open item from a qualification, since a qualification limits a statement while an open item describes work remaining. Two notice addresses are stale, and until they are corrected any notice sent under the agreements to those parties is of doubtful effect. One item is described as immaterial on the record, and the basis for that description is given rather than asserted.

The corporation's stock is not listed or quoted anywhere, and the file contains no transfer restriction arising from a market rule. A change of the corporation's principal place of business was reflected in the following year's annual report rather than by a charter amendment.

Records relating to former employees who exercised options are held with the plan records, and the certificate register cross-references them by grant number. The corporation's stock is not listed or quoted anywhere, and the file contains no transfer restriction arising from a market rule.
