CORPORATE RECORD - RECORD 012

Helioscope Robotics, Inc. - diligence file reference LEGAL_HISTORY-012

1. Franchise Tax and Annual Reports

The subject of this report is the corporation's state administration record: seven years of Delaware franchise tax reports, the change of computation method, the single late payment that carried interest, and the good-standing certificates obtained along the way. Franchise Tax, Annual Reports, and Good Standing Evidence. The corporate secretary compiled these papers, which set out the franchise-tax history, annual reports, and good-standing certificates. The account is retrospective throughout, and a reader should attribute each number to its own instrument and not to the transaction under negotiation.

The annual report identifies the directors and the principal place of business, and the log flags the year in which that information lagged an actual change. The corporation is current on all state obligations at the date of this file, subject to the current year's report not yet being due. A good standing certificate of recent date was obtained for the current diligence process, and it is filed at the front of the administration tab.

Because a franchise tax showing is required for certain filings, one amendment was rejected until the prior year's payment could be evidenced. Payment receipts are held as state-issued confirmations rather than as bank records, and the log says which form is on file for each year. A good standing certificate of recent date was obtained for the current diligence process, and it is filed at the front of the administration tab.

2. Submission Batches and State Responses

A third submission was accepted with a clerk annotation, which the log preserves because the annotation affects how the stamped copy reads. Counsel checked that each rejected submission was refiled in a form that matched the approval behind it, rather than in a form altered to satisfy the clerk. The registered agent lodged two of the batches, and the agent's own confirmation is filed alongside the state receipt.

Fees paid are recorded per batch rather than per document, since the state assesses several instruments lodged together as one transaction. The corporation retains the portal delivery log for each electronic submission, and the log cross-references it by confirmation number. The registered agent lodged two of the batches, and the agent's own confirmation is filed alongside the state receipt.

3. Custody, Index, and Completeness

The registered office address is a matter of public record, and the file holds the state-stamped instrument that established the current address. The index distinguishes an original instrument from a conformed copy, because the distinction matters for the charter tabs in particular. Counsel reviewed whether the minute book contains any instrument inconsistent with the charter as filed, and identified none.

Opinion letters delivered at each financing are retained with their qualifications, and the index does not summarize those qualifications away. One tab holds the closing sets for each financing, and each set is indexed by the closing date rather than by the agreement name. Counsel reviewed whether the minute book contains any instrument inconsistent with the charter as filed, and identified none.

4. Sequence of Filed Instruments

Chronology is stated by effective time rather than by execution date: two instruments lodged on one afternoon took effect minutes apart, and that order governs the share reconciliation. The original purpose clause was never narrowed, so no later instrument in the chain depends on a purpose amendment for its validity. Nothing was filed out of sequence, yet three instruments were signed well before submission, and the interval between signature and lodgement is recorded for each of them.

A short amendment touching only the forum article sits between two restatements, and it is easy to overlook precisely because it altered no economic term. The registered office statement moved twice, and the second move was effected by a standalone filing rather than folded into the restatement then in preparation. Nothing was filed out of sequence, yet three instruments were signed well before submission, and the interval between signature and lodgement is recorded for each of them.

4. Sequence of Filed Instruments - part 2 of 4

The 4. Sequence of Filed Instruments begun above continues from this point, and its row references run consecutively across the parts rather than restarting. The parts are to be read together.

Readers should carry the 4. Sequence of Filed Instruments's stated conventions across the break, since this part adds no definition of its own. Pagination alone determines where it falls.

5. Defined Terms and Construction

Capital stock, preferred stock, and each series are separate defined terms, and the charter avoids using the general term where a series is meant. The charter defines the record date mechanics for consent solicitations, and the definition was added by amendment partway through the history. One term defined in the earliest certificate is no longer used, and the restatement retained it, which the conformance review notes as a harmless remnant.

Where a definition was relocated during a restatement, the conformance schedule records the move so an old cross-reference can be followed. Cross-document definitions are incorporated only where the cited agreement was in force on the measurement date, and the file identifies that date. One term defined in the earliest certificate is no longer used, and the restatement retained it, which the conformance review notes as a harmless remnant.

6. Consent Record and Thresholds

Because written consents were solicited in counterparts, the register tracks how many counterparts were received against how many were sought for each matter. The threshold for one amendment shifted from a majority to two thirds partway through the history, so a consent that would have sufficed in 2021 would not suffice today. For one item the corporation solicited a consent from a class whose approval was not in fact required, and the file keeps that solicitation as a belt-and-braces record.

One matter was approved by a threshold expressed as two thirds of a series, and counsel confirmed that the shares counted were held of record rather than beneficially. One holder signed in two capacities, as a fund and as the manager of a co-investment vehicle, and the register counts those shares once. For one item the corporation solicited a consent from a class whose approval was not in fact required, and the file keeps that solicitation as a belt-and-braces record.

7. Register of Issued and Cancelled Certificates

The transfer agent holds the ledger of record, and instruction letters from the corporation are indexed against the entries they produced. Legend removal in each instance followed a certification from counsel, and the file holds that certification rather than relying on the transfer agent's practice. The register was reconciled against the transfer agent's own report, and the two agreed on every line except one entry the agent had recorded a day earlier.

Where a holder returned a certificate for re-registration in the name of a nominee, the register names both the former holder and the nominee. The register identifies which certificates are held in escrow and which escrow instrument governs each of them. The register was reconciled against the transfer agent's own report, and the two agreed on every line except one entry the agent had recorded a day earlier.

8. Defects, Corrections, and Ratification

The ratification path was chosen because the underlying action had been relied upon for years, and unwinding it would have unsettled records that third parties had accepted. The corporation did not treat the later restatement as curing the earlier defect, since a restatement carries forward existing text rather than validating the process behind it. The reviewer is cautioned that a stamped copy proves lodgement and nothing more, and that the substantive record sits in the consents behind it.

Ratification of a defective corporate act is a procedure the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware (8 Del. C. § 204) contemplates, and the corporation followed the notice and filing steps that procedure entails. One question remains open on the record: whether the notice of ratification reached every holder entitled to receive it, since one address on file was stale. The reviewer is cautioned that a stamped copy proves lodgement and nothing more, and that the substantive record sits in the consents behind it.

9. Equity Plan History

Each reserve increase after the first preferred designation required a class approval, and the history names the class that gave it. The plan permits early exercise, and the history notes that early-exercised shares appear in the certificate register as restricted stock. Counsel checked that no grant was made in excess of the reserve then available, and the check found no such grant.

Two restatements changed no reserve amount, and the history shows a zero delta for them rather than omitting them. One reserve increase was approved by a consent that also addressed a protective provision, and the file separates the two approvals. Counsel checked that no grant was made in excess of the reserve then available, and the check found no such grant.

10. Secondary Transfers and Their Process

Where a right of first refusal lapsed by non-exercise, the file holds the notice that started the period and the calendar showing when it ended. A single transfer was documented after the fact, and the reviewer is told the date the paperwork was assembled as well as the date the transfer took effect. For one nominee re-registration the beneficial holder did not change, and the record says so expressly to prevent the entry being read as a sale.

The transfer records identify the purchaser in each secondary sale, and no transfer in the file was made to a person who had not joined the relevant agreements. The right of first refusal analysis was run separately for the corporation's primary right and for the secondary right the investors hold. For one nominee re-registration the beneficial holder did not change, and the record says so expressly to prevent the entry being read as a sale.

11. Parties, Successors, and Permitted Assigns

The warrant holder joined for information rights only, and its joinder is drafted so that no voting obligation attaches to it. The register identifies which parties are treated as major holders for the purposes of the information and participation rights. A successor trustee joined in place of the original trustee, and the register keeps both entries so the change in capacity is visible.

The register distinguishes a permitted transferee that joined by operation of the transfer provisions from an investor that joined as a purchaser in a financing. Where a joinder was delivered late, the register states the delay and whether any right was exercised during the interval. A successor trustee joined in place of the original trustee, and the register keeps both entries so the change in capacity is visible.

12. Items Carried Forward

A lapse notice for one waiver was never circulated to a holder who was entitled to receive it, and the holder's later acknowledgement does not cure the omission on the record. The reviewer is asked to treat the open items list as the authoritative summary, since the individual tabs record only the items that touch them. The corporation's position on the unsigned board consents is that the action was validly taken by the directors who did sign, and the file records that position as a position.

The standstill question raised in the most recent secondary inquiry remains open, and no waiver has yet been granted or refused. One item concerns a nominee whose principal has not been identified, which bears on the information rights the nominee may claim. The corporation's position on the unsigned board consents is that the action was validly taken by the directors who did sign, and the file records that position as a position.

Indemnification agreements were entered into with each director individually, and their terms sit alongside the charter provision rather than replacing it. No court order affects any instrument in the file, and the corporation is not aware of any proceeding in which one might be sought.

The corporation maintains directors and officers liability coverage, and the coverage record is held by the finance team rather than in the charter file. Insurance and benefit plan records sit outside the corporate governance tabs, and the index points to the department that holds them.
