CORPORATE RECORD - RECORD 016

Helioscope Robotics, Inc. - diligence file reference LEGAL_HISTORY-016

1. Instrument Chronology

The third restated charter of December 2023 is the subject of this file, read against the instruments it consolidated, so that a reader can see which provisions survived the restatement unchanged and which were altered in the course of it. Third Restated Charter - Conformance Review Against the Prior Lineage. Prepared for the data room ahead of signing, the record here examines the third restated charter and its conformance to the instruments it consolidated. A caution on scope belongs at the outset: this record reports what was filed and approved in the past and makes no representation about anything pending.

The lineage begins with the original certificate filed at incorporation, and every later instrument in the file either restates that document in full or amends one identified article of it. Since the corporation has kept one Delaware file number since incorporation, the state index does not by itself distinguish one instrument in the sequence from the next. Where an instrument bears an effective time later than the hour of filing, the delay was requested in the cover letter and that request sits in the batch materials.

Counsel traced each authorized share total forward from the instrument that first set it, so a reader can see which filing produced the number carried in the current charter. Since the corporation has kept one Delaware file number since incorporation, the state index does not by itself distinguish one instrument in the sequence from the next. No merger or conversion instrument appears, so the entity has remained throughout a corporation organized under the original Delaware certificate.

2. Interpretation and Definitions

Defined terms are collected in one subsection and used consistently, and where an agreement outside the charter defines the same term differently the difference is noted. A defined term for business day governs every notice period in the instruments, and it excludes days on which the state office is closed. Where a term is used only once, the charter defines it inline rather than in the definitions subsection, and the conformance review lists those instances.

The term for requisite holders is defined by reference to shares outstanding, and the definition says expressly that authorized shares are not counted. A defined term for business day governs every notice period in the instruments, and it excludes days on which the state office is closed. The construction clause provides that a reference to a statute is to that statute as amended, which affects how the older instruments should be read today.

2. Interpretation and Definitions - part 2 of 4

Continuing the 2. Interpretation and Definitions, the rows below follow directly on from part 2 minus one, with no gap in the reference sequence. The parts are to be read together.

Readers should carry the 2. Interpretation and Definitions's stated conventions across the break, since this part adds no definition of its own. The sequence is unbroken either side of it.

2. Interpretation and Definitions - part 3 of 4

This is part 3 of the 2. Interpretation and Definitions, carried over unbroken; a reader reconciling a reference should treat the parts as a single register. The parts are to be read together.

No basis of compilation changes at this break; whatever the 2. Interpretation and Definitions recorded about scope and method at its head continues to apply. Nothing is restated from the earlier part.

2. Interpretation and Definitions - part 4 of 4

Continuing the 2. Interpretation and Definitions, the rows below follow directly on from part 4 minus one, with no gap in the reference sequence. Pagination alone determines where it falls.

Nothing in this part varies how the 2. Interpretation and Definitions was compiled, and the headings given at the start remain the operative ones.

3. Designation Provisions in Detail

Dividend terms are stated as a preference payable when declared rather than as a cumulative accrual, and the designation says expressly that no dividend accrues in the absence of a declaration. Where a later designation created a junior series, the earlier designation was amended so that its seniority language named the new series expressly. The series terms bind successors and permitted assigns, and the designation makes an assignment of rights ineffective until the assignee has joined the relevant agreement.

The liquidation subsection sets a preference amount per series and then addresses participation separately, so a reader must take the two provisions together to see the ranking. Where a later designation created a junior series, the earlier designation was amended so that its seniority language named the new series expressly. A closing subsection states that the designation is not a stockholder agreement and that no right in it may be enforced by a person who is not a holder of record.

4. Defects, Corrections, and Ratification

A filing may be effective as a matter of state process while the corporate action it records still lacks an approval the charter demanded, and this file keeps those two questions apart. Counsel formed no view on whether any third party relied on the defective act, because the record does not contain the evidence such a view would require. A refiling was considered and rejected, since refiling would have created a second instrument with a later effective time and disturbed the reconciliation of authorized totals.

Acceptance by the state establishes only that the instrument met the filing requirements; it says nothing about whether the requisite holders approved the underlying action. Counsel formed no view on whether any third party relied on the defective act, because the record does not contain the evidence such a view would require. The file records that no stockholder brought a challenge within the period during which one might have been brought, though that is not offered as a legal conclusion.

4. Defects, Corrections, and Ratification - part 2 of 3

Set out next is the balance of the 4. Defects, Corrections, and Ratification, in the sequence in which the rows were originally compiled. No row is omitted at the join.

Nothing in this part varies how the 4. Defects, Corrections, and Ratification was compiled, and the headings given at the start remain the operative ones. The parts are to be read together.

4. Defects, Corrections, and Ratification - part 3 of 3

Continuing the 4. Defects, Corrections, and Ratification, the rows below follow directly on from part 3 minus one, with no gap in the reference sequence. The sequence is unbroken either side of it.

Readers should carry the 4. Defects, Corrections, and Ratification's stated conventions across the break, since this part adds no definition of its own. Pagination alone determines where it falls.

5. Approvals and Requisite Calculations

The requisite for each action was computed on shares outstanding as of the stated record date, never on authorized shares, and the worksheet supporting each computation is filed with the consent. Consent in lieu of a meeting was used throughout, which the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware (8 Del. C. § 228) permits subject to the mechanics the charter and bylaws then imposed. A trustee signature was accepted only after the trust certificate had been produced, and the register notes the date the certificate arrived.

A class vote and a general stockholder approval were obtained separately where both were required, and the register records them as two distinct approvals rather than one. Consent in lieu of a meeting was used throughout, which the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware (8 Del. C. § 228) permits subject to the mechanics the charter and bylaws then imposed. The corporation obtained one approval by unanimous consent of all holders of record, which removed any question about the notice that a partial consent would have required.

6. Stock Certificates, Stubs, and Reissues

The certificate register carries a stub for every certificate issued, and each stub records the class, the number of shares, the holder of record, and the authority for the issuance. For one holder the register shows two open certificates of the same class, which the corporation has left outstanding rather than consolidating them. One reissued certificate bears a legend that its predecessor did not, because the holder's circumstances changed between the two issuances.

Cancellations are recorded with the date of cancellation and the successor certificate number, so a chain from an original issuance to the current holder can be walked in one pass. For one holder the register shows two open certificates of the same class, which the corporation has left outstanding rather than consolidating them. The corporation issues certificates only against a completed subscription or grant record, and the register names that record for each issuance.

7. Custody, Index, and Completeness

The minute book is organized by tab, and the index states for each tab the period covered, the form in which the material is held, and who holds it. Corporate records requests from holders are logged separately, and no such request was outstanding at the date of this file. The secretary's certificate delivered for this process certifies the minute book as complete subject to the exceptions the index lists.

Custody is split between the corporate secretary, the transfer agent, and outside counsel, and the index says which materials sit with each of them. Corporate records requests from holders are logged separately, and no such request was outstanding at the date of this file. Materials relating to the current financing are held outside the historical tabs and are not indexed here.

8. Recorded Transfers and the Rights Engaged

Each secondary transfer in the file passed through the right of first refusal process, and the record shows whether the right was exercised, waived in writing, or allowed to lapse unexercised. Any transfer that would have required a class approval is identified, and none in the period did. One transfer record notes that the purchaser asked for and did not receive an information-rights joinder, so its rights are limited to those the agreements give any holder.

Co-sale notices are dated and their response windows calculated, so a reader can see whether a participating holder responded inside its period. Any transfer that would have required a class approval is identified, and none in the period did. The corporation charged no transfer fee, and the file notes that the agreements would have permitted one.

9. Waivers, Terms, and Lapse

Each waiver in the register states the provision waived, the date granted, a term in days, and a lapse date computed from that term, so nothing depends on a reader's arithmetic. Counsel reviewed whether any waiver purported to waive a right that the granting party did not hold, and found none. The effect column states what the waiver actually enabled, not merely which clause it addressed, so a reader can see the transaction behind it.

A waiver that lapses does not revive the waived provision retrospectively, and the register records what happened during the waiver period as well as after it. Counsel reviewed whether any waiver purported to waive a right that the granting party did not hold, and found none. Waivers were circulated to the full holder group even where only one holder's right was affected, and the register records that practice.

10. Submission Batches and State Responses

The submission log records every batch lodged with the state, the documents inside it, the date of lodgement, the fee paid, and the state's response to the batch as a whole. The log was reconciled against the state's index for the corporation's file number, and every accepted instrument appears in both. One document was lodged by facsimile with the original following by courier, a practice the log notes has not been used since.

Two submissions were rejected, and in each case the log states the reason given, the correction made, and the date the corrected form was accepted. The log was reconciled against the state's index for the corporation's file number, and every accepted instrument appears in both. Where the state's response date differs from the effective time of the instrument, both dates appear so the interval is visible.

11. Tax and Annual Report History

The corporation has filed an annual report and paid Delaware franchise tax for every year since incorporation (8 Del. C. § 502), and the log pairs each report with the receipt for the payment. One report was filed on the last permitted day, and the log notes the timing without treating it as a deficiency. The log carries the tax year rather than the filing year in its first column, because the two differ for every entry.

The computation method changed once, from the authorized shares basis to the assumed par value capital basis, and the log identifies the first year on the new method. One report was filed on the last permitted day, and the log notes the timing without treating it as a deficiency. One year's report was filed before the directors' slate had been updated, and the following year's report corrected the listing.

12. Items Carried Forward

The open items are listed as they stand rather than resolved on paper, because a diligence reader needs to know what the corporation has not yet closed. Where an item was closed during the review, the file records both the state before and the step that closed it. The file distinguishes an open item from a qualification, since a qualification limits a statement while an open item describes work remaining.

Three consent counterparts have never been returned, and while the requisite was met without them the file does not describe the sets as complete. Where an item was closed during the review, the file records both the state before and the step that closed it. Counsel expects most of the listed items to close before signing, but the file makes no commitment on the reader's behalf.
