Board Consent 2025-04-15 CS0114 Secondary

Record

Administrative matters were considered.

Approved transfer of 1,540,000 shares under CS-0114.

The meeting then continued to other business.

Deliberation and Resolutions

For Board Consent 2025-04-15 CS0114 Secondary, the secretary recorded attendance, quorum, disclosed interests, materials reviewed, questions raised, advice received, and the alternatives considered before the vote.

Each resolution identifies the approved document or action, any condition or required consent, the officers authorized to implement it, and the limits of that authority.

The certification preserves the adoption method, abstentions, effective time, exhibits, and continuing record-keeping obligations.

Action Taken by Written Consent in Lieu of a Meeting

The undersigned, being all of the directors of Helioscope Robotics, Inc., a Delaware corporation, take the following action by written consent without a meeting, with the same force and effect as if taken at a meeting duly called and held, and consent to the adoption of the recitals and resolutions set out below. (8 Del. C. § 228)

No meeting was held and no notice was given or required. Each of the undersigned confirms that the materials listed in Annex 1 were made available before signature and that he or she had the opportunity to put questions to the officers and to counsel before signing. Nothing in this consent limits the matters the directors may take up at a later meeting.

Recital: The Proposed Sale and the Persons Concerned

A holder of common stock of the Company, who is also an officer and a director, has agreed to sell a portion of his shares of common stock to Tessellate Ventures I, L.P., an existing holder of the Company's preferred stock, in a privately negotiated sale for cash. The certificate representing the shares proposed to be sold, and the number of shares to be transferred, are those identified in the transfer particulars set out in this consent.

The selling holder has told the Board that the sale is for personal reasons unrelated to the affairs of the Company, that he intends to remain in his office and in his employment, and that he retains a substantial majority of his holding after the sale. The purchaser has told the Board that it is buying for investment and not with a view to distribution.

The Company is not a party to the sale, receives no part of the purchase price, and gives no representation to either party about the value of the shares. The purchase price agreed between the seller and the purchaser was disclosed to the Board for the purpose of considering the matters described below and is not adopted by the Board as a determination of value for any Company purpose.

Recital: Rights Engaged by the Proposed Sale

The Company holds a right of first refusal over the proposed sale, and certain holders of preferred stock hold a secondary right of first refusal and a right of co-sale, under the agreement among the Company and those holders. The share transfer restrictions are noted on the certificate and are enforceable against the holder and his transferees. (8 Del. C. § 202)

The selling holder gave the notice of proposed transfer that the agreement requires. The Company's exercise period has begun and has not expired. The officers have canvassed the holders entitled to the secondary right and have been told by each of them that it does not intend to exercise, and no holder has given notice of an intention to co-sell.

Counsel has advised that the Company may decline to exercise its right and may waive the remaining periods, that a waiver in respect of this sale is not a waiver in respect of any future sale, and that the transfer restrictions continue to bind the purchaser in respect of any onward transfer of the shares acquired.

Recital: The Seller's Position as an Officer and a Director

The selling holder is an officer of the Company and a member of the Board. He disclosed the material facts of the proposed sale to the other directors in writing before this consent was circulated, has abstained from the resolutions below, and signs this instrument only to acknowledge that he has been given notice of the action taken and does not vote on it. (8 Del. C. § 144)

The other directors considered whether the seller's position gives the Company any reason to withhold the waivers granted below. They concluded that it does not: the shares proposed to be sold are shares the seller already owns outright, the sale gives him no benefit from the Company, and the purchaser is a holder whose interests in the Company's capitalisation are already known to the Board.

The other directors also considered whether the sale should be conditioned on the seller's continued service. They concluded that it should not, because a condition of that kind would attach a service obligation to the disposal of shares that are not subject to any repurchase right, and because the seller's service obligations are dealt with in his employment arrangements and not in the Company's stock records.

Resolutions: Declining the Company's Right and Waiving the Remaining Periods

RESOLVED, that the Company declines to exercise its right of first refusal in respect of the proposed sale described in the recitals, and that the officers are authorised to give the selling holder written notice to that effect on behalf of the Company.

RESOLVED FURTHER, that the Company waives the balance of the exercise periods applicable to the secondary right of first refusal and to the right of co-sale in respect of this sale only, on the basis of the written responses received from the holders entitled to those rights, and that this waiver extends to no other transfer, proposed or contemplated, by this holder or by any other holder.

RESOLVED FURTHER, that the officers are authorised to acknowledge the transfer agreement on behalf of the Company to the extent the Company's acknowledgement is required by it, provided that the Company assumes no obligation to the purchaser beyond the recording of the transfer and the issuance of certificates as provided below.

Resolutions: Admission of the Purchaser to the Existing Agreements

RESOLVED, that the purchaser shall become a party to the agreement containing the transfer restrictions, the voting agreement and the information provisions to the extent those agreements require a transferee of common stock to adhere, and that the officers are authorised to accept and countersign the adherence agreement in the form circulated with this consent.

RESOLVED FURTHER, that the shares transferred shall carry, in the purchaser's hands, the same transfer restrictions, drag-along obligation and market stand-off obligation that bound them in the seller's hands, and that no provision of this consent releases those shares from any of them.

RESOLVED FURTHER, that nothing in this consent confers on the purchaser any right that attaches to the Company's preferred stock by reason of the shares acquired, the shares acquired being shares of common stock, and that the purchaser's rights as a holder of preferred stock are unaffected by this consent and are to be determined under the instruments that create them.

Resolutions: Securities-Law Conditions to the Transfer

RESOLVED, that the transfer shall not be recorded on the Company's books until the officers have received the purchaser's written representation that it is an accredited investor and is acquiring the shares for its own account without a view to distribution (17 C.F.R. § 230.501), and the selling holder's written confirmation that the sale is made without any general solicitation.

RESOLVED FURTHER, that the officers are authorised to accept counsel's opinion, or counsel's written advice in a form the officers consider satisfactory, that the sale may be made without registration in reliance on an available exemption (15 U.S.C. § 77d(a)(2)), and that the shares in the purchaser's hands remain restricted securities whose onward resale is limited accordingly. (17 C.F.R. § 230.144)

RESOLVED FURTHER, that the certificate issued to the purchaser shall bear the Company's standard restrictive legend and a legend referring to the agreements to which the purchaser adheres, and that the officers shall not remove either legend without the written advice of counsel.

Resolutions: Instructions to the Equity Administrator

RESOLVED, that the officers are authorised and directed to cancel the certificate identified in the transfer particulars, to issue a certificate to the purchaser for the shares transferred and a replacement certificate to the selling holder for the balance of the shares represented by the cancelled certificate, and to record both issuances in the Company's stock ledger.

RESOLVED FURTHER, that the officers shall instruct the administrator of the Company's equity records maintained on the Ledgerline platform to reflect the cancellation and the two issuances in the same posting, so that the ledger cannot show the cancellation without the corresponding issuances, and shall obtain written confirmation that the posting has been made.

RESOLVED FURTHER, that the officers shall reconcile the platform record to the stock ledger after the posting and shall report any discrepancy to the Board, the stock ledger being the Company's record of holders and the platform record being an administrative convenience that does not displace it.

Reasons for the Approval and Alternatives Considered

The directors considered exercising the Company's right of first refusal. The Company's cash was committed to the deployment programme approved for the year, and the directors were not willing to spend it on the repurchase of common stock from an officer when the same cash funds field installations that the Company's next financing will be judged on.

The directors considered asking the selling holder to defer the sale until after the next financing. They concluded that a deferral would tie a personal matter to a corporate timetable that the holder does not control, and that a sale to an existing institutional holder, on terms the Board can see, is a better outcome for the Company than a sale to an unknown buyer later.

The directors were satisfied that the sale is between willing parties dealing at arm's length, that the purchaser is already familiar with the Company's affairs, and that no Company asset is applied and no Company right is given up beyond the waiver expressly granted in this consent.

Effectiveness, Counterparts, and Filing

This consent is effective on the date on which the last of the undersigned signs it, and the Secretary shall record that date as the date of the Board's action. The resolutions remain in force until amended or revoked by the Board, and the authority granted to the officers by them expires if the transfer is not recorded within ninety days of the effective date.

This consent may be signed in counterparts, each of which is an original and all of which together constitute one instrument, and a signature transmitted electronically has the same effect as an original signature. The Secretary shall assemble the counterparts, file the assembled consent in the minute book with the annexes and the transfer particulars, and record the filing in the minute book index.

Further Assurances and Records to Be Kept

The officers shall obtain from the selling holder and from the purchaser such further documents as are reasonably required to record the transfer, including any stock power, any spousal consent required by the Company's practice, and any tax form the Company must hold in respect of a transfer between the parties described.

The Secretary shall keep the transfer file for as long as the Company keeps its stock records, shall index it against both the cancelled certificate and the two certificates issued in its place, and shall make the file available to counsel without further authority whenever a question about the Company's capitalisation arises.

If the transfer is not completed, the officers shall record the fact in the transfer file, shall confirm to the holders entitled to the secondary right that the waiver granted by this consent lapsed unused, and shall treat any later sale by the same holder as a fresh proposed transfer requiring a fresh notice and a fresh consideration by the Board.

The officers shall also report to the Board, at the meeting following completion, the effect of the transfer on the Company's record of holders, so that the Board is not left to learn of the change from a later export of the equity records prepared for another purpose.
