SELECTED PROVISIONS OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF ARDEN

Compiled for the constitutional review of the Climate Resilience Funding Act

Article I, Section 9 — Due course of law

No person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property but by due course of law.

Article III, Section 14 — Single subject

No bill shall embrace more than one subject, which shall be expressed in its title.

Article VII, Section 2 — Dedicated funds

Money raised for a purpose declared by law shall be applied to that purpose and to no other, and shall be held separate from the general revenues of the State.

Article VII, Section 5 — Uniformity of charges

All charges laid upon a class of persons shall operate uniformly upon the members of that class.

Article IX, Section 1 — Police power

The Legislature shall have power to enact laws for the protection of the health, safety and welfare of the people and for the conservation of the natural resources of the State.

Arden has no general statute providing that the provisions of an Act are severable. The question whether an invalid provision may be severed is therefore governed by the terms of the Act in question and by the decisions of the courts of this State.
